SECTION C: READING COMPREHENSION 10mks

Read the following passage carefully and answer the question below it. You have to write in complete English sentences.

Every day you are the victim of a serious, crime. This crime affects you and millions of other people too: Although it is as terrible as fraud, and even murder, this crime is seldom punished. The crime is pollution and it is endangering our survival. Let's take fraud. If you think that fraud is, for example, printing counterfeit money, you are right. The dictionary defines fraud as deception and counterfeiting money. This is certainly deceiving. Pollution, however, can also be fraud. Think about those colourful packages than for the product inside. And that is fraud because you are being deceived. Without knowing it, you are paying more for something that you never even asked for. It is pollution, too. What do you do with that expensive package? You just throw it away, of course, extending the amount garbage that is produced every day,

Now, think about robbery for a minute. If three men with guns held up a bank and went off with all the money, you would agree that this is robbery, another serious crime. We all know that robbery means taking things away from other people. But robbery isn't just stealing money. Pollution is also robbery. For example, when cities throw raw sewage (*) into rivers, the water becomes polluted and all the living organisms in it die. That kind of pollution robs you of the pleasure of fishing. What about those oil ships which break up, spilling their oil into the ocean? That's pollution, too, and it robs you of clean, white beaches and the enjoyment of swimming on hot, summer day.

Finally, let's discuss murder. When you think about murder, do you think of a bank robber shooting a policeman? This is indeed murder. Sometimes murder is quick, but other times the killer prefers to torture his victim until he dies. Pollution murders in that way. Pollution is one of the worst killers in our society. A pollution causes about half of ail human diseases. Thousands of Canadians die every year from heart and lung diseases caused or made worse by pollution. And they do not die immediately.

They often die slowly, painfully facing worst death throes.

Pollution is all around you, making your life less pleasant and endangering your health, highways and parks are littered with old cans, papers, and bottles; ruining the natural beauty of our environment, The noise of jets and of city traffic cause noise pollution that affects your ability to hear and can even make you deaf. Cars, buses, and industries poison the air you must breathe. Pulp and paper, one of Canada's largest industries causes a lot of pollution. Even though we have used up many natural resources, hundreds of trees are still cut down every day. Chemical sewage and old logs are thrown into rivers and the air around the pulp and paper factories is polluted with sulphur. Mercury, carelessly permitted to run off into many of the lakes and rivers in Canada, cause harm to fish. When people eat fish poisoned by mercury, they too become poisoned. The mercury slowly makes them die.

What are you going to do about pollution? You can't always count on someone else to figure out a way to solve the problem.

You can start by cleaning up the pollution in your own neighborhood. Save up old newspaper, bottles, and cans and begin a recycling depot. Plan an antipollution campaign. Talk over the problem of pollution with your neighbors and tell them about its dangers. Encourage your government to make new laws which will help cut down on pollution.

Don't you think that it's time to stop this terrible crime, pollution? Remember, pollution is endangering our survival.

(*) sewage= eaux d'égouts
